Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 01 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Fog slowly clearing, then sunny spells for a time today.

Today:
Overnight fog will slowly lift to leave a largely dry but cold New Year's Day with sunny spells. Increasing cloud bringing a few spots of light rain to the east during the afternoon, and showers brushing the Scilly Isles. Maximum temperature 7 deg C (45 deg F).

Tonight:
During the evening, some light patchy rain continuing in the east and some scattered wintry showers towards the west. Otherwise a clear night with frost and icy stretches likely developing. Minimum temperature -1 deg C (30 deg F).

Saturday:
A largely dry day for most with sunny intervals on Saturday. However, scattered showers will develop in the west during the afternoon. Another cold day with overnight frosts. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Turning cloudier on Sunday with a risk of some showers developing, then often cloudy with further showers on Monday and Tuesday. Feeling cold throughout and becoming breezy.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.